The Republican Record.

"Our party," says a Republican contemporary, "points with pride to its record."

Let us refer to some features of Republican record during the last twelve years. Briefly stated:—

Eight years of Grant.

With his offensive nepotism and disreputable pets.

The Boss Shepherd Ring in Washington.

The Whisky Ring in St. Louis.

Plundering carpet-baggers in the South.

The "Black Friday" scandal.

The bloody shirt and the incitement of sectional hate.

The Credit Mobilier bribe.

The DeGolyer contract.

The back pay steal.

The Freedmen's Bank swindle.

The Belknap disgrace.

The financial panic of 1873.

The gathering of troops at Washington to overawe the Democrats and defeat the will of the people.

The infamous steal of the Presidency.

Reckless squandering of the people's money.

Four years of Hayes.

A minority President, fraudulently placed in office.

The reward of every man prominently concerned in the theft of the Presidency by the bestowal of a fat office.

Civil Service Reform sham.

Persistent demand for troops at the polls.

The will of the people frustrated by repeated use of the veto.

A minority party with this infamous record demands four years more of power.

The people say: "No!"

JUDICIAL PRIDE is an incentive of effort. Praise your children if they deserve it, and don't be afraid it will make them conceited; merit compliments serve rather to make persons satisfied with themselves, and agreeable, than vain and overbearing. It is your child is pretty let her know you think so. Many a girl has been made timid and self-distrustful for life because her parents thought it their duty to convince her that she was plain and unattractive. As a rule, those who have the greatest gifts and talents are not the ones who are best satisfied with themselves. They absolutely need encouragement from their inferiors to buoy them up. A well-timed compliment does them good. It makes sensitive people wretched to have their defects pointed out and commented on, with no allusion to their redeeming virtues. As for men, they never make efforts which they think will end in failure; make a man think he can do what he undertakes, and he exerts all his powers and will frequently come off victorious in spite of many obstacles, and in face of all discouragements. If blame is needed, don't restrain it; but if you can conscientiously praise a well-meaning effort, do it. There is no knowing what good you will accomplish.

The American Humane Society offers a purse of $5,000 for an invention of an improved cattle car in which animals can lie down and be watered and fed on their journey to the markets, thus avoiding the suffering caused by unloading from and again re-loading the cattle into the cars. Each inventor is advised to file a caveat at the United States Patent office. The award will be reached as soon after October 1st, 1880, as practicable, which seems a very short time. The right is reserved of dividing the $5,000 into two or more prizes. If it is thought the end in view requires it. All competitors are required to send models and plans to Edwin Lee Brown, Chicago, Ill.

TOPEKA, KAN., Sept. 17.—Hugh L. Petty, a printer, who has been drinking hard for several days, shot and killed himself here this morning.

He left a note requesting that his remains be interred, and that his remains be interred in Garrard county, Ky., beside those of his mother. In a letter to a young lady to whom he was engaged to be married, he said that he could not stop drinking, and, therefore, being unworthy of her or of himself, he was resolved to die.

It is not what we earn, but what we save, that makes us rich. It is not what we eat, but what we digest, that makes us strong. It is not what we read, but what we remember, that makes us learned. It is not what we intend, but what we do, that makes us useful. It is not a few faint wishes, but a life-long struggle, that makes us valiant.

"I will not learn a trade!" exclaimed the Chicago lad to his father. But this business of learning a trade is only a matter of time, for within a year that young man was studying harness-making in a State prison.

Too Particular.

A girl may not ask a man to become her husband; but, there are many ways in which she may with propriety communicate to almost any young man her ideas concerning him. They are not set down in the guide-books. They are not part of our written literature. They come not by rule and regulation. They are above and beyond all these, and responsible to no law. Impossible though it be to define them in words, the language of love speaks them more plainly than any voice. Most girls start out in life with the intention of marrying somebody, though many of them are what is called too particular. The girl who wants to marry, but is not easily suited, looks around to see what offers, and finds that this man's beard is too red, that one's eyes too blue, and the other one's ears too long. She will look a little further. She examines all that are in the market, and concludes to look further still. And when, after having almost unconsciously become a flirt, and having broken the hearts of half the young men in the neighborhood, she keeps on "looking a little further," she finds herself going down the hill on the shady side of the way, still with an indefinable longing to marry somebody, and wondering who will come along to propose to her. It would be rash to advise the young lady to accept the first marrying man that offers. It is equally rash to advise her to wait, and wait, and keep on waiting, and at last marry nobody. But, if she desires to be "settled in life," it is well not to be too particular, or too shy to give encouragement to the right man when he comes along. —[Chicago Ledger.]

Here is a criticism of Bernhardt by Alice Harrison, the burlesque actress: "I think the American public will be disappointed. They will go on to see her and that's all. I paid $10 for a seat up in the fourth tier of the Gaiety Theatre, London, to see the best advertised actress in the world. I call her unevenly great; that is my opinion of her as an artist. She is the female Barnum of the day. Why, she even advertises her thinness. I have seen plenty of actresses who were far thinner than she. But she uses every thing as an advertising dodge. She descends to little tricks, too, which I think are out of place in a legitimate actress, and are only becoming in a soubrette like myself. She wears thin, long muscatelle gloves, and toys with them, pulling them up and down. She bangs her hair, and the frizzes reach to her eyebrows, and she does these little tricks," and Miss Harrison illustrated the feminine habit of smoothing the bangs down over the forehead. "Now, those tricks are not worthy of a great actress—that is a soubrette's business. She has very high cheek bones, and her face is not remarkable. Her eyes are flashing and penetrating. But their expression is peculiar. They remind me of a whipped hound."

THE WAY THEY DO IT IN LOUISVILLE.—Mr. Charles Smith's daughter married a thrifty milkman Sunday, and the young folks had their little fun out of the event. They joined in a gift of a bedstead and bed and so fixed it that the whole thing fell down when the young couple went to bed. Then, to make more of it, they had a rubber bag blown up under it, attached to which was a trumpet, and when the trumpet announced the mishap a pandemonium of horns and bells broke loose outside. It was a "h—l of a time," as the parrot remarked to the monkey, but everybody was good natured.

TO KEEP EGGS.—Eggs may be kept good for an indefinite period by the following method: Put them in an open work-basket and immerse them for a moment in boiling water; let them stay just long enough to form a film on the inside of the shell; this excludes the air. Then place them in some convenient vessel, small end down, and set them in the coolest part of the cellar, where they will keep till wanted for use. This method we have used successfully for years.

Printing presses are now being made in New York which will work off complete papers at the rate of 14,000 copies per hour, printing from rolls on both sides at once, cutting the pages across the top, pasting the two sheets together, folding the papers in five folds, and counting and delivering them ready for mailing.

"Look here, my fine fellow," said the lecturer to the boy who was disturbing the orator by constantly coughing, "here's a quarter to get a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup."

TO RELIEVE CASKS FROM MUSTINESS.—Burn a little sulphur in the empty casks, bung, and let them stand for a day.

A Model Girl.

I wish more of her class existed, for the sake of society at large. She is not what you call handsome, though possessed of a quiet attractiveness all her own. Her wardrobe is chosen for quality according to her financial circumstances; the colors are selected with care, suitable to each other and favorable to her complexion (you may call this taste as it is, "modest taste"); the style must, of course, be as near the popular fashion as she dare approach, but never quite up to the height; when out calling or shopping she dresses with neatness and care; if walking, she neither moves too fast nor slow, but glides along at a natural and graceful step which is very becoming, recognizing all her friends by a polite bow or welcome grasp of the hand; but there are no demonstrative embraces or gushing words. She is strictly truthful. When any question is being discussed, and her opinion is asked, she gives it hesitatingly, not doubtfully, and, if not accepted, never allows herself to utter a word of contradiction, but calmly and quietly withdraws from the discussion, although her opinion is not lost or defeated by so doing; on the contrary, it almost always carries weight and effect. Her acts and words are unobtrusive, but her influence is great in the home which it is her happiness to adorn.

As curious a baptism as is ever witnessed occurred at Dallas, Texas, the other day. A condemned murderer named Wright desired to be baptized, and a Baptist clergyman was sent for, and Wright was taken out to Trinity River. But the Sheriff had his own suspicions. To him it seemed more likely that Wright was after a chance to commit suicide, and so he, too, accompanied the procession. When they reached the river the Sheriff tied a rope around the condemned man and made sure of his temporary salvation before he would let the minister attend to the rest. When the ceremony finally took place the Sheriff stood like a fisherman on the bank, with the line in his hand that was attached to Wright, and the minister proceeded to baptize a veritable prisoner—Church and State united in the act.

BLAINE VS. HANCOCK.—Senator Blaine says that Hancock is ashamed of the part he took in late war. We suppose Blaine is not ashamed of the part he played. When drafted, he paid $1,200 for a substitute, got the substitute a lieutenant's commission and had him placed in the perilous front of the quartermaster's department, where he robbed soldiers and was sent to the penitentiary at Auburn, N. Y. That was the sum and substance of Blaine's heroic effort to preserve the life of the Nation.—[Breckinridge News.]

In Rhode Island there are sixty Baptist churches, eight mission stations and 10,636 members represented in three associations. In Texas the Baptists number 120,000 communicants of all colors and ages. In Colorado the denomination has twenty-four churches and 1,100 members, but only fourteen ministers, nine of whom only are pastors.

A captivating stranger arranged with the Rev. Dr. Gray, President of Dickinson Seminary, at Williamsport, Pa., for the board and tuition of a mythical daughter, paid the $106 bill in advance with a worthless check for $200, and escaped with the difference in good money.

A WILD-EYED WOMAN ON IT.—A wild-eyed woman sailed into this office a few days ago with her finger on it, and wanted to know "who writ that piece!" The explanation given didn't seem to satisfy her, and she threatened to cut and come again.—[Bowling Green Intelligencer.]

"What are you doing out there, my daughter, in the night dew?" said the kind old gentleman on the piazza. "Practicing fencing," was the sweet reply, as she leaned over the pickets till her face was dreadfully close to William's.

After a sharp flash of lightning, the other day, a little five-year-old Essex (Vermont) boy looked up at his mother and said: "Mama, I guess God scratched a pretty big match that day; don't you?"

PUTTING IT NEATLY.—Said the little pet of the household, on her last birthday: "It's a lovely doll, dear grandpa and grandma, but—I've been hoping it would be twins."

The Rev. J. A. Spurgeon has just become entitled to a legacy amounting to about $75,000, bequeathed to him by a member of his former congregation.

Workmen! Look to your interests and save doctor bills by using Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

The Trade in Blotting Paper.

The Providence (R. I.) Journal says: "It may not be known that blotting paper is an important article of commerce. It is, and is called one of the staples of the paper trade. Large manufacturing concerns are devoted exclusively to its production. The demand is always good, and subject to little variation. Blotting paper is of a comparatively recent origin. It is not many years since blotting sand was an article of Foreign export and domestic use. Foreign sand came from the Mediterranean, but Block Island beaches supplied Rhode Island. Some of the merchants of to-day remember when, as clerks in stationary stores they occupied leisure hours and rainy days in putting into convenient packages blotting sand that came from Block Island by the barrel in those pointed shallops that plow the main very little now-days. The use of blotting sand led to the manufacture of sand sifters, which in itself was an industry of some magnitude. A piece of paper has displaced them, sand and all.

THE NUMBER SEVEN.—The number seven in all ages of the world and amongst all peoples, has been regarded as peculiar, especially in sacred matters. The names of Hancock and English are each composed of seven letters. Add General to Hancock's name; we have seven letters. We also find seven letters in English's first name—William. The letters composing the full names of Hancock and English make six sevens. In the words triumph, victory or elected we find seven letters each. If there is any force in the prophetic number seven, the curious can find sufficient matter to engage their attention.—[Genius of Liberty.]

LAWYER WAELNER had a German woman for a client, and was endeavoring to draw from her a clear story for the benefit of Civil Justice Dinkel in the Fourth District Court. "He owes you this money, does he not?" asked the counsellor. "Yah! Dot's so." "And you made a demand; you asked him for it?" "Dot's so too." "And what was his response? What had he to say?" "He told me to go to the Tuyl!" "Well what did you do next?" "I come vor you, Lawyer Waelner, the innocent reply, which convulsed the court and spectators with laughter.—[New York Herald.]

The foundation stone of the great Cathedral of Cologne was laid on the 14th of August, 1248. The last stone needed for the completion of the building was put in place on the 14th of August, 1880. For magnitude and majesty it now stands unrivaled among the great Gothic religious structures of medieval times. It was begun amid the tears and prayers of the pious; it was finished with the means supplied by a lottery.

A Baptist minister writes that there is a decided improvement among the colored Baptists of Virginia. They are carrying on important home and foreign missions, and are building comfortable and even elegant churches, and are making great sacrifices in order to educate their children.

A Chicago keno gambling room is crowded ten hours a day. Two hundred cards are in constant use, and the dealer's percentage of the pools, involving no risk, amounts to $30 an hour. The establishment is understood to have official protection.

SO MANY WOMEN nowadays when walking kick up the lower back part of their dress with the heels of their shoes at every step. That is not graceful. Eve never kicked up her dress that way.—[Kentucky State Journal.]

In a tirade against education, a Methodist said: "I thank God for my ignorance!" Bishop Ames (in the chair) replied: "Then, brother, you have a great deal to thank God for."

"Goodness!" said a Parisian when the bill for the expenses of his wife's funeral, a little bill of six thousand francs, was handed to him, "I had almost rather that she had not died!"

When Shakespeare wrote "A man may smile and smile and still be a villain," he must have had in his eye a man running after his hat.—[Washington Republic.]

A New York Chinaman was asked his age, for the census. He thought it was the draft, and, wishing exemption, replied: "Ninety years oldest allies time."

JESUS is said to have marvelled only twice. Once at the faith of the centurion, and another time at the unbelief of the people of his own city.

Law is like a seine; you may see through it, but you must be considerably reduced before you get through it.

The wise man takes time and the mule by the forelock.

In Summary.

Wipe out the Electoral Fraud of 1876!

Wipe out imperialism.

Wipe out the bribe taker and the perjurer of the Credit Mobilier.

Wipe out De Golyerism. Wipe out bribes in the form of fees to members of Congress who hold the purse strings of the nation.

Wipe out forever the attempt to convert the honest and free republic of our fathers into a government of brute force and fraud.

Wipe out James Abram Garfield, the disgraceful, tainted, and shameful candidate of the Republican party!

Wipe out the party that is guilty of such frauds, and that outrages common sense with such a candidate! —[New York Sun.]

A gifted liar in the Elevated Railway Journal tells this: "Speaking of fast riding," said he, "I was standing by the side of an eight-mile straight track on the Keokuk and Wabash R. R. A train was coming. My friend and myself put our backs together to see it. I said, 'Here she comes.' He said, 'There she goes,' and as quick as a flash she was rounding the curve at the end of the eight miles. None but bald-headed engineers ever dare to run on that road, as the high rate of speed maintained would cut the hair off those who had any, and leave their heads as bare as billiard balls." Next.

I clasped her tiny hand in mine; I clasped her beautiful form; I vowed to shield her from the wind, and from the world's cold storm. She set her beautiful eyes on me; the tears did wildly flow, and with those ruby lips she said: "Confound you—let me go!"

Some boys at Oberlin, Ohio, had heard that sausage was made of cats and dogs. Getting into a sausage factory, they started a chopping machine and threw a puppy and seven kittens into the hopper. The local Bergh society has begun a prosecution.

"I have a theory about the dead languages," said a new student. "What is it?" asked the Professor. "That they are killed by being studied too hard."

When a tramp desires a glass of water, now, he steps up to the front door, rings the bell gently, and politely asks for a Dr. Tanner breakfast.

The habit of eating apples in the dark is what brings many a poor little worm to an untimely end.

The discontinuance of the Sunday train is a matter of much regret to the traveling and reading public.

PRAYER ANSWERED.—A young married lady of this vicinity, who objected to her husband's having anything to do with race-horses, prayed that the one he owned would get killed. It did get killed, sure enough. Who now will doubt the efficacy of prayer?

THE WAY TO DO IT.—Without making an error—save one inverted letter—Mr. Joe F. Waters set between four and five columns of THE INTERIOR JOURNAL one day this week, and it was a bad day for work. We hardly think this can be beaten, either in speed or cleanness of proof.

Call at once and see their large stock of Dry Goods, Notions, Furnishings, Groceries, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Carpets, Trunks, and get choice of bargains.

SUSPICION.—A well-known Republican of this town left Monday for Indiana, where he will remain till after the election. His going at this particular time is a little suspicious, and for that reason we publish a description of him, so that if he attempts to vote, he can be "spotted" at once. He is about 62 years of age; 6 feet tall; weighs 212 lbs., and has a habit of talking to himself. He had on, when last seen, a suit of blue and a blue-brimmed hat. The detectives will please keep an eye on him.

TO MERCHANTS.—The attention of merchants is called to the advertisement of Messrs. Shotwell, Clendish & Lothman, Cincinnati, which appears in another column. These gentlemen are doing a thriving business, and their six or seven floors of dry goods, notions, &c., are nearly always filled with purchasers. They defy anybody to sell as good goods as they do at lower prices. Our clever friend, Mr. L. M. Lasey, is among their popular salesmen, and his friends would oblige him and us by giving him a chance to sell to them.

FOR EVERY READER.—If you would consult your own best interest, don't fail to read this notice, and act upon our hints. With a pocket full of money and a good bank account at home, Mr. E. B. Hayden, of the firm of Hayden Brothers, of this place, visited the city markets the last two weeks and purchased for cash the finest stock of goods in endless variety, ever opened by that sterling old house, and that is saying a great deal, for their stock is always large and fine. They offer the public great bargains in all they have for sale.

WE PROPOSE, madam, to be the "fairest of the fair," the "squarest of the square," and therefore you run no risk in sending your son to our store to make a selection in an overcoat or a suit of clothes, or in sending us an order by mail, stating the age of your son—the goods to be sent by express, subject to approval. If the size is not all right, or the clothes don't suit, we will return them. Corner of Third and Market Streets, Louisville, Ky., will either exchange them for others or return the money which you paid us. Can any one be fairer and squarer than we are?

HERE THEY COME!—Not the Chinese, or the circus, or the bank-brokers, but a vast amount of thimble, prettiest, best and cheapest goods ever sent by express to any town in this State. They are being opened by those enterprising young men, the Hayden Brothers. First in the market, they had the pick and choice of all the nice and novel things in the way of ladies' dress goods, gentlemen's clothing, boots, shoes, hats, notions, and a thousand other things, "too tedious to mention." Let the public consult their own interest by going to Hayden's after their Fall and Winter goods.

AN EYE WITNESS.—Mr. R. H. Wearen of this place says that the Transcript is wrong in saying that Joshua Arnold, a cousin of Jim, was hung in Lexington. He was present at the hanging and says that it took place in Nicholasville on the 23rd of July 1857. He further says that Arnold was magnificently dressed in a fine suit of broad cloth, that he went smilingly upon the scaffold and acknowledged the right of the executioner with him proposed a hymn just before the knot was tied and Arnold joined in with great zest. When the rope was being tied by the Sheriff, he expressed his regrets to Arnold, who said in an audible voice, "Don't mind it at all. You are only doing your duty." The hanging was for the murder of his wife and we have mentioned the matter again to remind our readers that it was not always the case that a murderer could be cleared in Nicholasville, that away in the dim past there was a jury that did not hesitate to do its duty.

MARRIAGES.

MURRAY—COOK.—Mr. John P. Murray, the popular and sprightly editor of the Bardonia Record was married this week to Miss Lettie Maud Cook, a bright little beauty of Alabama. Our best wishes are extended to the coming Senator.

—Jesse Grant, third son of the General, was married at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, on Tuesday night, to Miss Lizzie, daughter of W. S. Chapman, a well-known capitalist on the Pacific Slope. Miss Flood, the several millionaires, who was to have married U. S. Grant, Jr., got mad because he flirted with another girl and gave him the mitten.

ELKIN—TUCKER.—This week the couple mentioned below took it into their heads to elope, which they did, eluding suspicion by taking the train at Shelby City. The Jeffersonville correspondent of the Courier-Journal tells the balance: "Mr. Michael F. Elkin, of Stanford, in the State of Kentucky, met Miss Katie Tucker, of Georgia, in his town not long since, and she being pretty, he soon fell deeply in love with her. Keeping in mind the motto of his State, 'United we stand; divided we fall,' he brought Miss Katie to this city last evening for the purpose of becoming united in the holy bonds. The County Clerk, fearing that Miss Katie, who is just eighteen, could hardly be capable of taking upon herself the responsibility of a husband, said they must have some person to make affidavit to the young lady's age. This was very trying to the young people, as they did not know a single soul in Jeffersonville. At this juncture the kind hack driver who brought them over saw that Miss Tucker was old enough. A few minutes afterward the hack drove up to the residence of Justice Keigwin. The couple were shown in to the parlor, and in less time than it takes to write about it Michael Elkin and Katie Tucker were made one. As 'Squire Keigwin jammed his feet down into his vest pocket he remarked to the groom: 'Now, you've Tucker for better or worse, and you ought to be good to her, as she is a pretty girl.' Michael said he would, and they returned home on the 9:30 boat."

McAlister, of this county, leaped over the picket fence, at the stables, during a race last week at Lexington, and falling, killed himself. The rider was also dangerously hurt. —TAYLOR.—A new cattle disease has made its appearance in Henry county. Mr. Zach Herndon has lost three valuable milk cows and a fine pedigree bull. It is not known what the disease is of which they died. They dropped and die and nothing can be done for them. A Lincoln County man says: examine their tails, and he will find a small place in them. Split them open at that place and insert salt and pepper, and his word for it, they will get well at once. He says he has saved a number of fine stock in that way.
—CINCINNATI.—The demand for shipping and butcher cattle is not as great as it was, but stockers and feeders are active, as the distilleries have commenced to buy. Good hogs sell readily at the quotations, but lower classes go off slowly. There is little change in the price of sheep and lambs, and the market continues steady. Below are the quotations.

—It was very unfortunate indeed that your Crab Orchard correspondent failed to get any dinner after undergoing so many trials and tribulations to get to Island No. 10. If it had not been generally known that it was to be an afternoon picnic, we never let any one go away hungry, especially if we had made as great preparations as they did for the Crab Orchard barbecue.
Kings Mountain.
—The Democrats here are enthusiastic for Hancock.
—Miss Amanda C. Brown has an interesting school in the 63d District.

—Last Sunday night, as Billy Singleton was returning from church he saw by the light of the heavens what he supposed to be a large "possum" skipping through the undergrowth near his path. Bill thought how nice his "possum" would look when roasted well and placed on the breakfast table before his carnivorous person. His mind filled with sweet thoughts, which prompted him to seize a stone and rush to within a few feet of his prey, throwing it with all his power at the little (inoffensive animal before him.
Then came a scint—scint—and not a sound.
But Billy—where was he?
Ask of the brush through which he ran.
And let that possum be!

—A child of Jack Bettus, lately deceased, died on Monday and was buried at the Lancaster Cemetery. A large funeral procession followed the remains. Mr. Hackley has the condolence and sympathy of many friends in his sad misfortune. Mr. Hackley was a most excellent lady, possessing the many sterling qualities that attract friends. —McClelland Johnston, a young man, of this county, who was admitted to the practice of law some months ago, has concluded to abandon this lucrative business, for the time being, and take a course of study in the College of Arts at Lexington, for which place he left last week. Mrs. Nellie Dell, of the Treasury Department at Washington, D. C., left here yesterday. She had been visiting Mrs. Judge Owsley. She will spend a few days in Cincinnati, and then return to Washington. Dr. Joe Leitcher and wife will go to-day to Lexington, where they will probably spend the winter. Chas. and O. A. Sweeney are in Cincinnati this week buying a full stock of Fall and Winter goods. Miss Marion Wolford has returned home from a lengthy stay at Somerset. She will not return to college during this five months. This is pleasing news to many of the young gentlemen, as she will be quite an acquisition to society. Miss Emma Buford, of Covington, will leave for her home to-morrow. She has made deep and lasting imprints upon the affections of our gallant youths. She, with a number of other young ladies and gentlemen, were splendidly entertained Saturday evening last at Mrs. Dr. May's, and Tuesday evening at Mrs. Chas. Sweeney's. My word for it, both of these tea-parties were very enjoyable and delightful affairs, your correspondent having been an eye-witness.

But the committee thought it best not to sever it.
